A: The first step is to identify the relevant provisions of the law. In this case, the relevant provisions are those relating to the liability of the parent company for the actions of its subsidiary. The next step is to determine whether the parent company has exercised control over the subsidiary. If the parent company has exercised control, it may be held liable for the actions of the subsidiary. The final step is to determine the extent of the parent company's liability. This will depend on the facts and circumstances of the case.

UNODC/TPB Assisted Nigeria in Reinforcing Measures Against Terrorism

UNODC/TPB and the UNODC Country Office for Nigeria initiated the final stages of the second phase (November 2013-April 2015) of its partnership programme for strengthening criminal justice responses to terrorism. A central element of the programme is building the capacity of Nigerian judges, prosecutors, and investigators to undertake rule of law-based and human rights-compliant measures against terrorism. The programme also assisted the Office of the National Security Adviser (ONSA) and the Federal Ministry of Aviation.

Strengthening Legal and Policy Mechanisms to Prevent Radicalization and CVE

In October 2014, a regional conference was organized by UNODC/TPB in cooperation with the Hedayah Centre of Excellence countering violent extremism (CVE) in the United Arab Emirates. The purpose of the conference was to discuss criminal justice and policy-making strategies to prevent terrorism through countering radicalization and violent extremism in the Gulf, Afghanistan and Middle East region. The event generated in-depth discussions of practical aspects, such as rule of law based criminal justice strategy to prevent terrorism, the use of the internet for recruitment, the rights of victims during criminal proceedings and their role in countering terrorist narratives.

Supporting Colombia in Investigating and Prosecuting Financing of Terrorism

In 2000, the United States and Colombia signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) on the Financing of Terrorism. The MOU established a framework for cooperation between the two countries in investigating and prosecuting terrorism financing. The MOU also provided for the exchange of information and the sharing of best practices. The MOU was renewed in 2010 and again in 2015.

The MOU has been instrumental in strengthening the capacity of Colombian law enforcement and judicial authorities to investigate and prosecute terrorism financing. Two New Modules on the Counter-terrorism Legal Training Curriculum

UNODC/TPB has recently published two new modules which are part of its Counter-Terrorism Legal Training Curriculum and focus on thematic areas of the legal and criminal justices aspects of countering terrorism:

- The module on Human Rights and Criminal Justice Responses to Terrorism aims at increasing understanding among criminal justice officials of global and regional human rights norms and good practices, and their practical application in terrorism cases.
- The module on Transport related (Civil Aviation and Maritime) Terrorism Offences is designed to help address the serious global threat presented by terrorist acts against aircraft and ships, their passengers, cargo or crew, or against airports and sea ports.
