

“Development on the move”

Towards an assessment of migration development and human rights links »

Jean-Christophe Dumont

International Migration Division

Directorate for Employment, Labour and Social Affairs, OECD

Figure II.5. Opinions about the impact of immigrants on the economy and balance of opinions in favour of immigration in certain OECD countries, 2003

General comments

- Access / Impact
- Short term / long term impacts
- Individual / national
- Causality
- Types of migrant/migration

Development on the move

- Sample size
- Calculation of return migration rates
- Coverage of emigrants
- Results / literature review
- Policy recommendations

Towards an assessment of migration development and human rights links

- Root causes of migration
- Impact on origin countries
- Impact on receiving countries
- Impact on migrants and their families
- General issues

Table 2.1. Times the Difference in Growth Rates of GDP is Significant (in %)

		Difference in Growth Rates of GDP			Difference in Growth Rates of GDP
		Gain	Loss	%	Gain	Loss	%
		Mexico (2002)			Ecuador (2004)
Non-Remittances Income	0.559	-0.006	-1.1%	0.565
95% Confidence Interval	(0.500; 0.503)			(0.477; 0.478)
Total Income	0.499	-0.052	-10.4%	0.481	-0.034	-7.1%
		Mexico (2000)			Nicaragua (2001)
Non-Remittances Income	0.528			0.497
Total Income	0.496	-0.011	-2.2%	0.519	-0.010	-1.9%	