International Migration Management

Overview - International Migration Management

Recognition by States

- Potential for economic growth, development and stabilization related to migration
- Need to identify effective measures for harnessing potential and minimizing negative consequences of migration
- Positive effects of balanced and strategic migration management

Recent Developments - International Migration Management

- Profound changes in understandings
- Establishment of informal, states-owned consultation mechanisms on migration
- Regional processes have outpaced multilateral efforts
- Constructive bottom-up approach
- Appreciation of common challenges, and complementary objectives of diverse stakeholders
- Facilitating good governance

Today's Presentation – Key Inter-State Consultation Mechanisms on Migration

- Regional Consultative Processes on Migration (RCPs)
- IOM's International Dialogue on Migration (IDM)
- Berne Initiative and the International Agenda for Migration Management (IAMM)

International Dialogue on Migration - Intersessional Workshops

Inter-State Consultation Mechanisms:

the Berne Initiative

States-owned consultative mechanism

Established by the Government of Switzerland at the International Symposium on Migration (2001)

- Identified need for balanced approach to facilitating regular migration and preventing irregular migration
- Declared a framework of guiding principles for the management of migration
- Conducted several regional consultations in 2004
- Sponsored and conducted one global study on inter-state cooperation
- Published expert report on migration and existing international legal norms

International Agenda for Migration Management (IAMM)

- Product of the Berne Initiative
- First gathering of common perspectives and understandings in a balanced, comprehensive and non-binding framework at international level
- Based on various documents emanating from RCPs and migration conferences
- Recognizes complexity of migration and shared and complementary nature of States' interests in migration
- Finalized at Berne II Conference (December 16-17, 2004), attended by some 300 participants representing more than 100 countries, as well as representatives from international organizations, NGOs and independent migration experts
