This has recently been confirmed by the judgment regarding the Chagos Islands which were a part of the territory of the colony of Mauritius. UK has been told that Chagos formed part of the territorial integrity of Mauritius and should have been decolonized at the same time in 1968. Mauritius argued before the ICJ that the separation of the Chagos from Mauritius was in breach of 1514 paragraph six which specifically prohibits the breakup of colonies before independence. The independence.
