That fragmentation started in 1700 with a war for the throne of Spain and ended in 1713 by Spain accepting the fragmentation they are complaining about in 2023. At a recent seminar Spain said the recognition of self-determination in the Chagos Island was because the Chagossians were the native inhabitants. In fact, the islands were populated first by slaves imported by France and then by contract workers brought in by British traders 100 years after the

This is how flimsy the Spanish case is.

In many seminars the message from the Secretary General has been that the options open to the people of the listed territories must be explained to them.

Spain describes our frontier with them as a "fence" which they now want to see removed as part of the fluidity.

	This fapen is not the nosition under International Law. The sovereignty of
