The EU Guidelines on promoting compliance with IHL, adopted in 2005 and updated in 2009, serve as a tool to promote respect for IHL by third states and non-state actors. Since their adoption the EU has continued to actively promote respect for IHL through the various means at its disposal. This year, in order to present a more systematic and transparent overview of the implementation of the Guidelines, the EU has issued the first annual report on the action taken by the European Union in this regard.
