

Check against delivery!

International organizations are parties) and V (Subsidiary means for the determination of rules of international law)

29 October 2024

Chairperson,

Estonia aligns itself with the statement by the European Union, and adds the following comments in its national capacity.

I would like to start with addressing the topic of settlement of disputes to which international organizations are parties. To begin with, I want to express gratitude to the Special Rapporteur Mr August Reinisch and to the ILC members for their contributions to discussions on the topic.

Estonia welcomes the deliberations on the important topic of settlement of disputes to which international organizations are parties. Everyone deserves access to justice regardless of whether the insured party responsible party is a state or an international organization.

We echo that the principle of good faith and spirit of cooperation must be applied as widely as possible in order to find amicable solutions to the disputes to which international organizations are parties. We should not set limits to means

Allow me to explain. The bundled claims in question means a claim that is tribunabat a specific level of hierarchyThis matter could be elaborated in the commentary to draft Conclusion 4 or 8.

Concerning draft Conclusion 6, Estonia appreciates ~~expressis verbis~~ negative