Agenda Item 110: Measures to Eliminate International Terrorism Dorothy Patton, Attorney-Adviser United States Mission to the United Nations October 2, 2024

Thank you, Chair.

The United Nations has long recognized terrorism as one of the most serious threats to international peace and security ach and every terrorist attack causes catastrophic damage to victims, families, communities, nations, and the world at large United States recognizes and expresses its deepest sympathies to victimes roof is in the past year alone in Israel, Mali, Afghanistan, Burkina Faso, Russia, Pakistan, Iran, and sadly Morecome here today to express our ongoing commitment to working together to pursue measures to eliminate international terrorism.

dangerous. We should also prioritize monitoring and evaluation to strengthen our collective evidence based efforts and ensure meaningful and sustainable impact.

It is critical that all efforts to counter and prevent terrorism and violent extremism respect human rights, including freedoms of expression and religion or belief, and the falls. In fact, efforts to stifle fundamental freedoms under the guise of terrorism are counterproductive and can even provide fuel for terrorist narratiles international community must recommit to multilateral efforts to prevent and counter terrorism and violent extremism, utilizing whole f-society approaches this terrorism and violent according to the following terrorism and violent extremism, utilizing whole f-society approaches this terrorism and violent according to the following terrorism and violent extremism, utilizing whole f-society approaches the following terrorism and violent extremism.

& RQFHUQLQJ D 3 & RPSUHKHQVLYH & RQYHQWLRQ RQ ,QW | FDUHIXOO\ WR GHOHbwleDeWyiHis/offitic\(\text{a}\)MhBt\WhetUnitteQ\W\dit\(\text{o}\)ns send united, unambiguous signals when it comes to terrorism; otherwise, we risk some portion of the portion of the comes to terrorism.

To close, the United States reiterates its firm condemnation of terrorism in all forms and manifestations and reiterates its commitment to work with the international community to counter terrorism and violent extremism.