

Moving forward on gender livelihoods and financing

Submission to UN High-Level Panel on internal displacement

Key messages

- Decades of efforts to draw attention to internal displacement have done little to drive down new displacement, let alone find sustainable solutions. Drawing on research and evidence from the Humanitarian Policy Group's (HPG's) work, this submission highlights

This work is licensed under
CC BY-NC-ND 4.0.

Humanitarian Policy Group
Overseas Development Institute
203 Blackfriars Road
London SE1 8NJ
United Kingdom

Tel.: +44 (0) 20 7922 0300
Fax.: +44 (0) 20 7922 0399
Email: hpgadmin@odi.org
Website: odi.org.uk/hpg

Cover photo: Carrying water
near an IDP camp in Somalia.
Credit: AMISOM

---

Gender and displacement

$\vec{v} = \begin{pmatrix} v_x \\ v_y \\ v_z \end{pmatrix} = \begin{pmatrix} v_x \\ v_y \\ v_z \end{pmatrix} + \begin{pmatrix} v_x \\ v_y \\ v_z \end{pmatrix}$

Advocate for aid actors and governments to pursue culturally specific and appropriate interventions that are led by and designed in consultation with internally displaced populations themselves

Call on donors and governments to urgently invest in longer-term, developmental approaches for gender-responsive support to internally displaced populations

Sustainable livelihoods and displacement

Rights are central to livelihoods

Protecting and building rights for IDPs suffering from conflict, violence and political instability

Prioritising mobility

Social protection for resilience and nurturing future livelihoods

Humanitarian response can be the right approach

Incorporating IDPs into national social protection schemes

Understanding the effects of internal displacement and learning from refugee contexts

---

New financing partnerships for internal displacement

New emerging partnerships between the private sector, aid agencies and funders need to be tailored to address displacement

The private sector can be a responsible partner but there are challenges

The page contains a dense collection of mathematical symbols and expressions, including:

- Equations involving  $c_e$ ,  $c$ , and  $c_k$ .
- Expressions with square roots and fractions, such as  $\frac{1}{\sqrt{c}}$ .
- Complex algebraic structures with nested parentheses and subscripts.
- References to variables like  $A$  and  $A_1$ .
- Use of Greek letters like  $\alpha$  and  $\beta$ .
- Various mathematical operators like  $+$ ,  $-$ ,  $\times$ , and  $\div$ .

