I am pleased to announce the successful conclusion of the "Workshop on the Implementation of the Plan of Action for Women to Counter Hate Speech an Prevent Incitement to Violence and Related Orimes (): Enhancing the role of Sudanese Women to counter hate speech and prevent incitement to violence that could the Office of the Special Adviser on the Prevention of Genocide (OSAPG) in Kigali, Rwanda, from 4-5 November, in partnership with Aegis Trust and the International Residual Mechanisms for Oriminal Tribunals. It focused on content and implementation of the Napoli Plan of Action and brought together women from around the world, aiming at enhancing their capacities in monitoring, analyzing, and preventing risks of genocide, war crimes and crimes against humanity. Participants included Sudanese women active in prevention of violence and peacebuilding in their communities including those now living in exile or in refugee camps as a result of the ongoing conflict in Sudan.

Crimes

through dialogues with a focus on mitigation of risk factors for genocide, war crimes, and c	rimes