

For immediate release suffering, must end as a matter of immediate urgency. Enough innocent blood has been spilled. Enough suffering has been created. Innocent civilians must be protected ó now. We cannot let this suffering continue any longer.ö"uj g"ko r rqtgf 0

The Special Adviser also reiterated her call to all parties to engage seriously in the ongoing efforts aimed at brokering a peaceful resolution to the conflict and protecting the human rights of the Sudanese people. öThe world cannot afford to stand idly by as El Fasher descends into chaos. We must act now to prevent a disaster of unimaginable proportions. I reiterate the call of the Secretary-General for the Parties to return to political dialogue as the only path to a negotiated settlement and to implement resolution 2724 adopted by the Security Council in March 2024.ö" the Special Adviser concluded.

* * * * *

For media queries please contact:
Office on Genocide Prevention and the Responsibility to Protect <https://www.un.org/en/genocideprevention>
Email: osapg@un.org