

Commission on the Status of Women

Forty-ninth session

New York, 28 February – 11 March 2005

PANEL IV

Remaining challenges in relation to statistics and indicators, building on the some countries—but we know there is gross underreporting. We recommend the collection of prevalence data in every country. This could at least begin to put some numbers to the magnitude of the problem and make it easier to estimate the magnitude of the problem.

comprehensive statistical indicators measuring progress, or the lack of progress, but it is necessary to ensure that the political will is there to fully achieve these goals.

