H.E. Mrs. Sory Chan

Vice-Minister, Ministry of Women's Affairs

at

the 42nd session of the Commission on the Status of Women

New York

24 February 2011

Madam Chairperson

Distinguished Ladies and Gentlemen,

It is a pleasure to take part in the 5th session of the Commission on the Status of Women, and to present the statement on behalf of the Cambodian Ministry of Women's Affairs (MoWA). The Royal Government of Cambodia (RGC) continues to actively support the mission of the CSW and those strategic areas identified in the Beijing Platform for Action; the targets set by the CEDAW and Cambodia's Millennium Development Goals (MDGs).

In Cambodia, gender equality has been improving progressively. Cambodian women are recognized as the backbone of economic and social development. Sen, Prime Minister of the Kingdom of Cambodia.

The Royal Government of Cambodia has been working together with non-governmental and civil society organizations to improve the Cambodian society. The poverty level has now declined due to significant economic growth and sustained macroeconomic stability.

The Government has also provided scholarships, additional training programs, accommodation and safe transportation to the female students. This has greatly increased the number of female students admitted to primary schools. Consequently, the dropout rate for female students decreased from 52.5% to 22.3%, while the literacy rate for women aged over 15 years increased from 60.3% to 66.1%. Every effort has been made to improve the education sector.

The overall access to primary and reproductive health services has improved. moreover, maternal and children's health care is a priority in the health sector.

The provision by the RGC of small and medium loans to women and to communities has increased the capacity of women and communities with leadership skills so that they can participate in decision-making at all levels of governance.

Government is implementing the Law on Prevention of domestic violence, protection and the law on Anti-Human trafficking and commercial sexual exploitation and will effectively enforce them in collaboration with all relevant institutions and development partners.

Enhancing the capacity for women to contribute to and benefit from national economic growth and poverty reduction is being strengthened progressively.

The Rwandan Government will continue to implement its policies aiming at:

- Increasing women's participation in decision-making at all levels
- Strengthening the legislative framework on violence against women.

- Providing training in modern technical skills as well as in leadership.

- Providing more budgets for school development and access to sustainable micro-finance.

- Building health service centres especially for women to deal with the problem of maternal mortality.

Despite these achievements, women still face many challenges, such as lack of education and business skills. In the outside world, there exist the lack of financing, traditional attitudes and cultural biases, difficulty of access to markets and the long-term financing that would not able their businesses to expand and flourish.

All of these challenges hinder women-owned businesses from achieving their full potential. These are the main reasons why businesses run by the women tend to be small and informal.

In closing, I would like to say that the RDA looks forward to continuing its productive cooperation with the UN and its Member States for the promotion of gender equality and the empowerment of women.

I thank you for your kind attention.
