STATEMENT

BY

H.E. AMBASSADOR G. C. DAZIMA

TO THE
THIRD COMMITTEE
OF THE 65TH GENERAL ASSEMBLY

ON
AGENDA ITEM 28: ADVANCEMENT OF WOMEN

NEW YORK
12 OCTOBER 2000

Chairperson,

Zimbabwe aligns herself with statements made by Yemen on behalf of the Group of 77 and China, Malawi on behalf of the African Group and by the United Republic of Tanzania on behalf of Southern African Development Community.

Chairperson,

My country has placed the implementation of gender equality and empowerment of women policies at the centre of its development strategy. This is shown by our national priorities under the SDGs especially to top three targets viewed as critical for the achievement of all the other Goals. The three... Eradicate Extreme Poverty and... Combat HIV/AIDS, malaria, TB and other diseases.

Under difficult conditions, Zimbabwe has continued to deploy and direct much of her own resources as far as she is able towards the... progress has been made in implementing our numerous national legal instruments as well as the international instruments the Party to... As a Party to... domesticating the provisions of international instruments and synchronizing them with our own national initiatives, my Government has adopted national Gender Gender Policy which has continued to provide the requisite institutional framework for gender mainstreaming. As evidence of its commitment to fulfil its obligations, Zimbabwe has submitted its combined report on the implementation of the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW) to the CEDAW Committee in October 2007.

Chairperson,

Like most countries and despite all our efforts, Zimbabwe is still recording gender inequalities throughout the society. It is a fact that gender stereotypes, violence against women, under representation of women in decision-making processes; the lack of involvement... women and boys; and the unequal distribution of unpaid work between women and men have negative impacts on women's employment opportunities and their involvement in public life.

Chairperson,

My Government in collaboration with its partners has consequently initiated various initiatives aimed at eradicating the impact of these areas concerning the efforts still need massive state job so as to realize more positive... Nevertheless, Zimbabwe believes that for our women to enjoy the highest standards of health and human rights, their economic empowerment is of critical importance. My delegation believes that once our women are economically independent, most of the difficulties they face will fall by the wayside and they will be better positioned to challenge their difficulties and advance without hindrance from men.

Chairperson;

Zimbabwe is committed to do all it can in cooperating with all countries and other stakeholders in combating trafficking and in women and girls' indeed human trafficking is a contemporary form of slavery which can be said to have ended with those that have labelled it a serious scourge facing the world. Zimbabwe has been actively engaged in strengthening national and sub-regional responses to trafficking in persons. My delegation therefore welcomes the adoption of the new UN Global Plan of Action Against Trafficking in Persons in July 2010. My delegation stands ready to work with the UN and other partners in raising awareness in all people about this scourge.

Chairperson;

Zimbabwe is facing challenges in improving maternal and reproductive health services. Maternal and child mortality in the world remains high and Zimbabwe is no exception. We agree with those who have asserted that no woman should die or be disabled in the process of giving birth. My delegation appeals to the international community's cooperation in combating maternal mortality and morbidity, obstetric fistula, including the improvement of health systems, ending child marriages and discouraging adolescent pregnancies will go a long way in eliminating obstetric fistula and most maternal deaths and morbidities.

Chairperson;

Allow me to laud the creation of UN Women, the new gender entity, which resulted from rigorous deliberations under the UN System 2006 Conference agenda. My Government stands ready to work with the new gender entity, as well as its newly appointed Executive Director, Ms. Michelle Bachelet. Zimbabwe hopes that mainstreaming gender equality and empowerment of women will remain a central focus of UN Women. My country hopes that all the necessary resources, financial and technical, will be made available to the entity so as to ensure the implementation of programmes at the country level that change the situation of women for the better. In addition, my delegation encourages UN Women to also prioritize strengthening capacities in the collection, analysis and use of data disaggregated by sex, age and geographical area. It has since been proven that improved data gathering and use by all stakeholders contributes to better policy planning, and programming, across all economic sectors. This is vital aspect in programme planning.

Chairperson...

In conclusion, my delegation wishes to reaffirm its commitment to eradicating all forms of social, cultural, economic and political factors that perpetuate gender inequalities and impede the advancement and empowerment of women...

We call on the international community to join us in the fulfilment of our commitments we undertook in Beijing in 1995 and the Millennium Declaration in 2000.

I thank you.
